WHO SENT THE CANDY?

"Central" Receives a Gift and Doesn't Know Who Sent It.

The other day one of the pretty operators at the telephone office received a handsome two-and-four-hundred box of bon bons, which made her very happy—and her companions somewhat envious. An A. D. T. boy delivered the gift, and a neat note, tucked under the cover read, "with kindest regards."

To "Central" the candy episode looked simple. Just another case of a present—and a love-sick swain. Since then, however, it has developed into a troublesome tangle, and as a result two young men of the town have threatened each other with bodily violence. Incidentally "Central" is becoming worried over the dilemma.

It seems that a certain young man was keeping company with a certain young lady from the Telephone exchange. Then another young man, from Portland, became infatuated with the first young man's sweetheart, and to help his cause along, he sent her a box of candy.

But young man No. 1, happened to see young man No. 2, making preparations to present his gift, and he accordingly made plans to thwart the interloper.

He discovered that the box would contain no note to indicate the name of the donor of the gift, and decided to appropriate this honor to himself.

Hastily scribbling a note to his sweetheart, he delivered it into the hands of a second messenger boy, with instructions to bribe the first boy and have the note delivered with the package.

Shower Proof Walking Skirts

For the Rainy Season, Specially Made to Order.

By waterproof cloths we do not mean rubber goods or mackintoshes, that are so objectionable to the wearer. But regular woolen cloths that are especially prepared and proofed by the new process that does not change the fabric, but leaves the cloth as porous and healthful as the original piece.

The ruse worked nicely and "Central" placed the gift to the credit of No. 1, never surmising it had been sent by No. 2.

No. 1 is now "sold" at the telephone office, but No. 2 is a "dead one." With the faith characteristic of her sex, "Central" still has implicit faith in her No. 1, and refuses to believe that he has been guilty of deception.

No. 2 still does not know just how it happened, but is mistrustful of his rival, No. 1.

DEATH OF MRS. ROSA WELCH

Occurred at Portland Yesterday—Former Resident of Astoria.

The sad intelligence of the sudden death of Mrs. Rosa Welch at Portland yesterday afternoon, was received in this city with deep sorrow by those to whom she was near and dear in ties of kindred, and with profound regrets in the large circle of friends, who remember her most happily when she dwelt at No. 165 Thirty-Seventh street in this city, a few years ago.

She was the wife of Alfred Welch, former chief engineer and electrician of the Astoria Street Railway Co., and with her husband and children removed to Salem about two years ago when Mr. Welch was called to the manager's desk of the big electric system at the capital.

Mrs. Welch, who was but 33 years of age, was ill but three days, and had gone to Portland for special medical treatment and for a few hours seemed to rally under the skill devoted to her case, but later sank beneath the burden imposed by the malady and expired at 1 o'clock p. m. yesterday.

She left an interesting family of two sons and three daughters, who, with the devoted father are left to mourn the deepest loss of their lives, for Mrs. Welch was the embodiment of good womanhood and fond methods.

Her remains were brought to this city on last night's express from Portland and taken at once to the home of her brother-in-law, J. M. Hodgson, at No. 106 West Bond street, where the funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, at the hands of her

Salem pastor, Rev. Mr. Errett, of the First Christian church. Interment will follow at Greenwood cemetery.

VICTOR GIMRE IS DEAD

Youngest Son of Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Gimre Passes Away.

Brain fever caused the death of Victor, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sven A. Gimre, at the family residence, 22 West Duane street, at 1 o'clock this morning.

Previous to last Monday the child had always enjoyed exceptionally good health. All that medical skill and kind treatment could do was done to save the life of the little boy, but efforts in that direction were unavailing. The parents are heartbroken over their loss. Announcement of the funeral will be made tomorrow.
